Walk one.
Live two.

Here’s some news you can live with. For every hour of regular, vigorous exercise—like walking—adults may gain as many as two hours of life expectancy. So join the American Heart Association’s movement to get all Americans walking. At work. At home. Anywhere. Be part of this company’s walking challenge. Start walking, and record your miles online. It’s easy. You can do the math with your feet.
