Melville Marriott, Melville, NY

PROGRAM OBJECTIVE
This program is designed to increase registered nurses’ and other healthcare professionals’ knowledge of current cardiovascular and cerebrovascular issues confronting healthcare professionals caring for cardiac and stroke patients across the spectrum of care.

LEARNING OBJECTIVES
After participating in this activity, participants will be able to:

• List two best practices to improve pre-hospital stroke care and two best practices to improve pre-hospital cardiac care.
• Provide an overview on the identification and management of patients suffering an acute myocardial infarction in New York City.
• Explain three health risks associated with obesity.
• Describe the concepts behind telestroke and how telestroke can improve treatment times.
• Define 3 cardiovascular conditions that predominantly affect women.
• Describe the role of left atrial appendage and stroke risk in patients with non-valvular atrial fibrillation.
• Define how the plasticity of the brain contributes to stroke recovery and rehabilitation.
• Identify two cardiac effects of antidepressants.
